Stars show how customers felt. Reviews show why.

What makes Egyptian customers unhappy with delivery apps, and how do the four big apps compare?

Every public review was read by the same rules, so the apps can be compared like for like. The focus is on what customers wrote, not only on how many stars they gave.

APP	COLLECTED	EGYPTIAN, KEPT	HOW KEPT
Talabat	22,646	1,159	Egyptian markers
Breadfast	1,755	1,711	Egypt-first app
Instashop	1,615	279	Egyptian markers
Rabbit	465	448	Egypt-first app
TOTAL	26,481	3,597

Egypt-first apps: all reviews kept except the few with other-country markers (Breadfast 44, Rabbit 17). Talabat and Instashop serve several countries, and Google Play doesn't record a reviewer's country, so only reviews written in Egyptian dialect or naming Egyptian currency or places were kept.

Five things the reviews say

- | | | |
|----|---|---|
| 01 | The store rating hides current pain. | Breadfast shows 4.80 stars, yet 38% of this year's Egyptian written reviews gave 1–2 stars. |
| 02 | Customer support is the #1 complaint at all four apps. | It appears in 41–68% of 1–2-star reviews that give a reason, ahead of every other theme. |
| 03 | Beyond support, each app fails in its own way. | Money at Talabat, app bugs at Breadfast, late delivery at Instashop and Rabbit. |
| 04 | Three apps answer their reviews. Rabbit doesn't. | 96–100% of reviews get a public reply within about 5 hours; Rabbit replied to 0 of 448. |
| 05 | Reviews work as an early-warning system. | A broken Breadfast release and a sudden Rabbit review spike both showed up within days. |

A 4.8-star store rating can sit on top of a year of complaints

WHY THE GAP

The store rating pools tens of thousands of ratings, most of them star-only taps with no text.

Written reviews are recent, and people write most when something goes wrong. Both numbers are real, but only the written reviews tell you what to fix.

Egypt-first apps only. Talabat's and Instashop's full review sets include other countries, and their Egyptian subsets lean towards long complaints, so their star shares aren't shown.

Customer support is the #1 complaint at all four apps

Next-biggest: Instashop late delivery and refunds (28% each) · Breakfast late delivery (19%) · Talabat refunds and payments (33%) · Rabbit late delivery (30%). Bases: 219, 475, 643, 229 reviews.

WHAT CUSTOMERS DESCRIBE

دلوقتي رسائل مكتوبة جاهزة ولا تحتوي علي المشاكل التي تواجه العميل

“Now it’s ready-made messages that don’t deal with the customer’s problem.” (Talabat)

بحاول اتواصل مع خدمه عملاء مفيش وبيتكتبتم التواصل ومحدث كلمني

“I try to reach customer service, nothing. It says ‘contacted’, but no one called me.” (Instashop)

Common threads: nobody replies, only a bot answers, the case is closed unsolved.

At Talabat, half of all complaints are about money

53%

OF TALABAT'S 1-2-STAR REVIEWS THAT GIVE A REASON MENTION MONEY

- 33% Refunds and payments
- 22% Prices and fees
- 8% Subscription charges (Talabat Pro)

A review can mention more than one money theme. Only Talabat gets subscription complaints.

اتخصم من الفيزا المبلغ و مفيش اي طلب اتعمل ... لا الطلب جيه و لا رجعتلي فلوسي

“The amount was taken from my Visa and no order was placed ... the order never came, and neither did my money.”
(Talabat)

TALABAT

Money: refunds and payments (33%) and prices and fees (22%), both the highest of the four.

BREADFAST

App bugs and login (17%), the highest of the four apps.

INSTASHOP

Support (68%) and late delivery (28%).

RABBIT

Late delivery (30%) and couriers (14%).

Share of 1–2-star reviews that give a reason. Highlighted: the highest of the four apps for that theme.

Three apps answer almost every review within hours. Rabbit answers none.

Replies are public: every future customer who reads Rabbit's reviews sees 364 one- and two-star reviews left unanswered. Egyptian reviews only; reviews edited after the reply are left out of the timing.

A broken Breakfast release showed up in reviews within days, and so did the fix

Versions with at least 10 Egyptian reviews. Highlighted: releases averaging under 2 stars.

التحديث الجديد ... مش شغال التطبيق بيقفل مش يفتح

“The new update isn’t working: the app closes, it won’t open.” (Breakfast, Oct 2025)

Rabbit got more reviews in three days than in a normal five months

A normal month brings about 23 reviews (median of the other 11 months).

122

OF THOSE 126 GAVE ONE STAR

ابلكيشن سيء والمناديب يسرقو الاوردرات

“Bad app, and the couriers steal the orders.” (typical review, 24 Mar)

Speed and people earn the praise

Instashop (9) and Rabbit (31) have too few positive reviews that give a reason to compare.

WHY IT MATTERS

The same two things decide both sides of the ledger.

Fast delivery and helpful people earn the praise; late delivery and unreachable support drive the complaints. Customers review the service, not the app.

Five moves for delivery apps in Egypt

01

Give customers a human

Support is the top complaint everywhere. Offer a clear route from bot to person, and track time to resolution, not time to first reply.

02

Make refunds fast and visible

A charge with no order is where trust breaks. Show refund status and timing inside the app.

03

Watch ratings by release

Track average stars per app version for a week after every update. A drop flags a bug before tickets pile up.

04

Reply to reviews

Replies are public. Unanswered 1-star reviews speak to every future customer who reads them.

05

Set a review-spike alert

Flag any day with three times the normal review volume, and read those reviews first.

How this was done, and what it can't tell you

METHOD

- Public Google Play reviews collected with the google-play-scraper library: 26,481 reviews for four apps, 1 Oct 2025 – 26 Sep 2026.
- 3,597 Egyptian reviews kept: Breadfast and Rabbit in full, minus reviews with other-country markers; Talabat and Instashop only where Egyptian dialect, currency or place names identify the writer.
- Themes coded with Arabic and English keyword rules and checked by reading samples. A review can carry several themes. Shares use reviews that give a reason.
- Store ratings as shown on 27 Sep 2026. No usernames were collected.

LIMITS

- Android only. Apple's public review feeds didn't return usable Egyptian data for all four apps, so iPhone users aren't covered; apps with more iPhone customers may be under-represented.
- The Egyptian filter favours longer reviews, so Talabat's and Instashop's samples lean negative. Star shares are shown only for Breadfast and Rabbit.
- Small bases: Instashop 279 and Rabbit 448 reviews. 14–37% of 1–2-star reviews give no reason ("bad"), so they carry no theme.
- Talabat's positive-review volume fell sharply in Aug–Sep 2026. The cause can't be confirmed from public data, so no rating trend is reported.
